

History of present illness:

The week prior, he had seen a dermatologist to treat "pre-cancerous lesions" on his scalp and arms. His skin initially became painful and red and it is now "peeling off" and very pruritic. He can't remember the name of the topical treatment he received but remembers the dermatologist telling him that it can be produced by bacteria and can also be used for acne treatment. His review of systems is negative.

Past medical history:

- Hypothyroidism
- Diabetes
- Dyslipidemia

Medications:

- Levothyroxine
- Atorvastatin
- Metformin

Allergies:

- None

Skin exam:

- There is desquamation with faint erythema over the scalp and arms.